CROYDON MAN IS BEING DETAINED BY POLICE HERE

Elmer Olsen, 39, Accused of Robbing the Croydon Post Office

ADMITS HIS GUILT

Alleged Loot Found in Man's Socks; States He Was Leaving Town

A Croydon man, Elmer Olsen, 39, is being held here today. Olsen is accused of robbing the Croydon post office, Saturday night. He admits, according to the police, that he took stamps and some change and also a revolver, but denies breaking into the place. He says he found the door open and walked in.

The alleged loot was found in Olsen's socks. Not the ones he was wearing, but three new ones which were filled with the stamps and money and some personal effects, gathered together by Olsen with the idea of "leaving town."

Olsen was apprehended on Second avenue, Croydon, after he had left his home, and according to his own words, "leaving town."

The stamps taken totaled $5.94%. A total of $14.89 was found in cash on Olsen's person, but he says not all of it was taken from the post office. The revolver was of .38, and belonged to George Lucas, an office clerk.

Olsen was arrested by Bristol Township Constable Joseph Seaders as he walked along Second avenue, Croydon, with a bundle under his left arm and his left hand jammed down into his pocket. Seaders grabbed Olsen's right arm and then suddenly discovered that there was a gun in the left pocket. Later Olsen is reported to have said "The gun was in the wrong pocket." As Olsen was being brought to the Municipal Building here, he took a swing at Robert Cole, postmaster. The blow landed on Cole's eye and left it marked.

Olsen is said by the police to have a record of having killed a man in Canada while engaged in a rum-smuggling quarrel. He is also said to have gotten out of a New Jersey jail on February 8th, where he had served time for robbery.

At the hearing this morning before Justice of Peace Laughlin, it was brought out that Cole and Olsen had been together earlier during the evening.

Cole says he was in a tap room and bought Olsen a drink or two and a sandwich, then went home.

Olsen told the police he had been drinking with Cole and that he went home with Cole, then returned to the tap room and later while in the vicinity of the post office found the door open, walked in and took the revolver, stamps and some change.

Cole is of the opinion that Olsen picked his pocket, taking the post office keys.

With the discovery of the robbery suspicion centered on Olsen, and Constable Seader began a search of Croydon for his man. He visited his various stopping places and also his home, but later came upon him on Second avenue, and placed him under arrest. Olsen put up a battle but was subdued by Seaders and his assistants.

EARLE AND GUFFEY ARE NEAR "BREAKING" POINT

Rumor, Apparently Well-Founded, Persists At The Capitol

DIFFERENCES SERIOUS

HARRISBURG, Feb. 25—Rumor, apparently well founded, persists at the Capitol that Governor Earle and Senator Guffey have been at the breaking point on a number of occasions recently and there are indications that the patched up truce cannot long continue.

So serious is the difference of opinion between the Governor and his one-time enthusiastic backer that it is said Earle is looking around for another berth for Secretary of the Commonwealth David Lawrence, Guffey's lieutenant at the Capitol.

Guffey, it is said, realizing that if he breaks with Earle, it will be impossible for Lawrence to continue in the Earle cabinet, is quietly grooming Lawrence for Postmaster General.

It is common knowledge that President Roosevelt will shortly have to decide between keeping "Jim" Farley in his postoffice job or asking him to relinquish his position as Democratic National Chairman. Guffey shrewdly concludes that Roosevelt will prefer to have Farley as his campaign manager in 1936 than as Postmaster General, and he realizes that in the Postmaster Generalship Lawrence could be of vast assistance to him, Guffey, in dispensing political patronage and other favors in Pennsylvania. Likewise, in case of the expected break with Earle, Lawrence would be put in the position of receiving a promotion, instead of being kicked out of the Earle cabinet.

That is the story which is being related at the Capitol, and it is supported by the fact that Governor Earle, who paid something like a quarter of a million dollars to be elected to his present office, has told friends he is tired taking orders from Guffey and Lawrence. On several occasions recently Earle and Lawrence have come very near to the parting of the way, when Lawrence has insisted on the Governor carrying out orders originating with Guffey. The breach is widening between the Governor and the Senator, and it seems likely will come to a head before the close of the legislative session.

The first serious difference arose when Thomas Logue, the next Secretary of the Department of Internal Affairs, accompanying his old friend, John Phillips, head of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, procured the promise of Earle to name either Phillips or some other strong labor leader to the post of Secretary of Labor and Industry in the Earle cabinet.

When Guffey and Lawrence got wind of the agreement they finally procured the appointment of Edward N. Jones, of Pittsburgh, leaving Logue and Phillips out on a limb.

Guffey is quoted as saying he meant

CADET DINNER-DANCE IS PARTICIPATED IN BY 200

Address by Former D. J. Man. Initiation, Bestowal of Merits, Add to Varied Program

BURBANK IS RETIRING

The high-light of the year for the American Legion Cadets of Robert W. Bracken Post—the annual dinner-dance—was a spectacular affair, Saturday evening. A company of 200, inclusive of Cadets, officials of the corps and of Bracken Post and the Auxiliary, members of the cast of the recent stage production sponsored for the corps, and other guests, assembled for the formal festivity in an attractive setting in St. Mark's hall.

The program of the evening was indeed varied, and most enjoyable. There were included a dinner with turkey as the piece-de-resistance, bestowal of honors to corps members, presentation of honorable discharges, an informative address, initiation for Cadet Corps candidates, a sleight-of-hand performance, and dancing.

The only part of the evening that left a trace of regret was the announcement of the resignation of Harry Burbank, Mt. Holly, N. J., as commander of the Cadet Corps. Mr. Burbank is relinquishing his duties after six years of meritorious service. This move on the part of the commander who is beloved and revered by every boy in the corps, is due to pressure of other duties, and the fact that his home and work are a distance from this borough. As a token of their esteem the Cadets through the toastmaster of the evening, I. Johnston Hetherington, presented a Gladstone bag to their retiring chief.

Mr. Hetherington, who served as toastmaster at this eighth annual affair, in addressing the boys, said: "Bristol and Bracken Post are proud of this corps. You boys will find stiff competition during the next several months, owing to the increase in number of junior corps. But I hope you will work hard, and go to Wilkes-Barre and 'bring home the bacon' again. Many are of the belief that if this corps had been at the national convention in Miami last Fall it would be the national champion corps." The corps has for the past three years won the Pennsylvania state championship, this being a signal honor, as no other corps in the State has won that honor more than once.

Another statement of the toastmaster was: "About 675 boys have been handled in the corps, and not one of that number has appeared before a magistrate. If the American Legion here never does anything else but continue the work started with the Cadets the effort will nevertheless be greatly repaid. The town should be grateful for work well done. I am with you, boys, and the men of Bracken Post are with you one hundred per cent, but we expect the same of you."

A welcome was extended to the guests by Jacob C. Schmidt, Jr., senior past post commander, who thanked Scranton, Feb. 25—Sigmund Rentz, 38, an unemployed miner of North Scranton, was killed and his brother-in-law, Oscar Fitzner, 55, seriously injured today when their automobile skidded and overturned, crushing them underneath, at Dixon City, as they were seeking employment.

OFFERS TO TAKE RAUPTMANN'S PLACE

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 25—Stanley Prystup, World War veteran and C. W. A. worker, has offered to take Bruno Richard Hauptmann's place in the electric chair if the convicted kidnapper of the Lindbergh baby will pay $6000 to Prystup's family.

Prystup, who lives in Brooklyn, wrote a letter to Governor Harold G. Hoffman, of New Jersey, putting forth his idea. He would be the substitute he declared in his letter, because he wished to provide the money for his 14-year-old son and 12-year-old daughter. He said he found it very difficult to take care of his family on the $12 a week relief allowance.

Governor Hoffman turned down the offer. He explained: "The procedure you mention is not permissible under the laws of the State of New Jersey."

LETTERS TELL STORY

Rumford, England, Feb. 25—Two pitiful letters revealing the unsolvable grief of two beautiful American girls over the death of two British fliers were read today at the Inquest into the double suicide of Jane and Elizabeth DuBois, daughters of the United States Consul General at Naples, Italy. Clashed tightly together, the girls leaped to their death from a chartered airplane over Umminster, Essex, on Thursday. After hearing the letters and other evidence, a Coroner's jury returned a verdict of "suicide while of unsound mind." The fliers, whom the girls joined in death, were Flying Officer John A. Forbes and Flight Lt. Henry Longfield Beatty, two of nine R. A. F. airmen killed in the crash of a British flying boat near Messina, Sicily. The girls had known the fliers for only ten days, their father, Coert DuBois, testified, but the letters disclosed both had fallen desperately in love with them.

Name Tap-Room Proprietor As "Brains" of A Gang

BETHLEHEM, Feb. 25—(INS)—The proprietor of a Bethlehem taproom was named early today as the "brains" of a gang of desperate bank robbers and kidnapers, who once operated in Detroit and are purported to have planned the abduction of Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, for $250,000 ransom.

Police refused to divulge the name of the taproom owner, but it was understood that he is missing and that Department of Justice agents are conducting a far-flung search for him.

According to a confession, said to have been made by Louis Katura, 38, of Hellertown, one of four members of the gang under arrest, the Bethlehem saloon owner also suggested kidnapping Mayor Robert Pfeiffer, of Bethlehem, and Nicholas Castellucci, clerk in the County Commissioners' office.

Katura, detectives said, has made a full confession of the gang's activities since they came here from Detroit, headquarters of the once notorious "purple gang," and began operations. The gang, Katura was alleged to have admitted, held-up the Wilbur Trust Company, Bethlehem, last November and obtained $1775, and robbed the First National Bank of Coopersburg last January 1 of $2300.

DAMAGE IN HULMEVILLE CHURCH BLAZE IS $200

Fire Discovered Shortly Before Morning Services; Smoke Intense

AT EPISCOPAL EDIFICE

HULMEVILLE, Feb. 25—A fire in the floor of the center aisle of the main auditorium, Grace Episcopal Church, just prior to the morning services of worship yesterday, caused damage to the extent of about $200. Loss is covered by insurance.

The blaze, although conquered in short order, was of such nature that it was difficult to battle, owing to the intense smoke; and some time elapsed before firemen were able to find where the fire was located.

When the smoke was diminished the blaze was found to be in the flooring about the register in the center aisle. Chemicals were used, and a small amount of water from the Neshaminy Creek. Fire companies responding to calls were Hulmeville, South Langhorne and Langhorne, Bucks County fire marshal William L. Stackhouse investigated.

The fire was discovered at about 9:30 by Mrs. Alfred Holden who had arrived at the edifice early to prepare the altar for the day's worship. When she noticed the heavy smoke she summoned Walter Hanns to investigate.

The firemen were then sent for, and when they arrived flames were shooting up from the floor to quite a height. The blaze however was confined to the section about the register.

Some articles of furniture were carried from the building to points of safety by the crowd which quickly gathered.

The services were conducted yesterday in the parish room. At the time of the fire the rector, the Rev. James C. Gilbert, was conducting service at St. Paul's Chapel in Edgely.

Hour Approaches for Trial of Francis Wiley, Gangster, Jail-Breaker and Purported "Trigger Man" for the Defunct Mob, and Martin Farrell — Five Others of Gang Are Awaiting Their Trial.

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 25—With more than a score of heavily armed state troopers on guard duty, the ancient Bucks County Court House today resembled an armed fortress as the hour approached for the murder trial of Francis Wiley, gangster, jail-breaker and purported "trigger man" for the defunct Mais-Legenza mob.

It became known for the first time this morning that Wiley and Farrell will be tried together on a murder charge.

At the opening of Court, District Attorney Eastburn moved for a severance from the indictment, of Joseph Eckert, also charged with murder, due to the fact Eckert has turned State's evidence.

Defense Counsel Webster S. Achey, counsel for Wiley, objected that Eckert be severed from the case. He had no objection to trying all three together, but objected that Eckert be severed from the case. The objection was over-ruled.

John Phillip Betz, Jr., counsel for Farrell, voiced a similar objection, the same as Achey, but the objection was over-ruled.

Eckert will be tried later and probably will plead guilty. Weiss was kidnapped last October from his Overbrook Hills home by members of the tri-State gang of which Robert Mais and Walter Legenza, both of whom were recently electrocuted, were the leaders. After $8,000 of a $50,000 ransom demanded had been paid, his abductors shot Weiss twice, weighted his body with railroad ties and tossed it into the Neshaminy Creek near Croydon. The body was recovered after the capture of Mais and his mob in New York last January.

Besides Wiley and Farrell, five other persons await trial for connection with the slaying. The others are: Matthew Barrow, alias "Skinny" Barrett, 36; Robert Eckert, 38, all charged with murder; Joseph Coffey, 27, Harry Seibel, 40; and Mrs. Beatrice Wilkinson, 32, charged with being accessories after the fact of murder.

Arthur M. Eastburn, Bucks county district attorney, heads the prosecution.

One entire section of the Bucks County court room is reserved for policemen, defendants, witnesses and jurors. The other half is reserved for spectators, and that section was filled to capacity.

About half the Court room that is reserved for the prisoners is roped off down the center aisle.

Farrell was the first to enter court this morning in the custody of Sheriff Gwinner and Deputy Sheriff Ross. About three seats behind Farrell, Eckert took his seat with Deputy Sheriff Clymer.

In Prisoners' Row, down front, guarded by three State Troopers and a parole officer from the Eastern State Penitentiary, Wiley sat.

Every entrance to the Court Room is being guarded by State Police and highway patrolmen.

Out of the first 15 witnesses called, six of them had conscientious scruples against the death penalty and they were challenged.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AS WINDOW-CLEANER

By the Stroller
No, dear reader, we don't mean that the chief executive of these grand and glorious United States actually cleans windows—

But this is what happened—Saturday forenoon—President Roosevelt passed through Bristol via Pennsylvania Railroad. Just before the scheduled arrival of the presidential train, station employees here suddenly became very busy. All hands cleaned the windows of the waiting rooms along the platforms, both on the east and west sides. Even the station agent himself was seen slinging a rag.

Well, the windows needed it all right, and it is a mighty good thing that Roosevelt passed through here. The only regret is that he does not pass oftener. If he did, we might get the snow shoveled off the platform; and brighter lights in and about the station; and, who knows, we might even get the old tin can painted and those badly-worn planks in the platform replaced—or will we have to wait for government ownership?

Did you ever see our station look more disreputable?

VARIETY OF FOOD IS NEEDED TO PROPERLY BALANCE THE DIET

By Rhandena A. Armstrong
(Home Economics Representative)

Food fads and fallacies are many and widespread.

Scientific authorities tell us, however, that the best diet for the normal human being includes a certain variety of the common foods and that poor diets are poor not because of what they contain, but because of what they lack. They are poor because they are not complete, not balanced.

By following these rules an adequate diet will be insured:

Every meal—milk for children and bread for all.

Every day—cereal in porridge or pudding, potatoes, tomatoes or oranges for children, a green or yellow vegetable, a fruit or additional vegetable, and milk for all.

Two to four times a week—tomatoes for all; dried peas, beans, or peanuts; eggs, especially for children; lean meat, fish, poultry, or cheese.
